Seven Traffic Fatalities in Lee County in 1935

CHILD KILLED ON STREET IN FRANKLIN GR.

Ray Geeting, Aged 11, Ran Into Path of Iowan's Auto

The seventh automobile fatality in Lee county this year occurred last evening at 5 o'clock on the Lincoln Highway at Spring street in Franklin Grove when 11-year-old Ray John Geeting was struck and almost instantly killed by a car driven by George Farris, aged 29, a salesman residing at 828 North Fourth street, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Ray and his brother Robert, 9, were distributing bills and were crossing the highway to the north section of the village when the fatality occurred. Unconscious and bleeding from wounds sustained when he was struck by the radiator of the sedan, he was carried by the occupants of the machine into the home of Mrs. Susan Barkman, where a physician was summoned. The child expired within a few minutes after the accident, having sustained a skull fracture and other injuries. The body was removed to the Hicks funeral home and Coroner Frank M. Barker conducted an inquest this morning at 10 o'clock at the Franklin Grove town hall. State's Attorney Edward Jones was present to conduct the inquest.

HEAVY TOLL IN U. S.

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Traffic brought death to 7,510 persons in 86 American cities during the first 46 weeks of this year compared with 7,696 in the same 1934 period. This death toll, reported today by the bureau of the census, included 164 the week ending November 16 and 219 the preceding week. Topping all was Chicago with 21 compared with 20 the previous week. New York had 15 last week against 25 the previous week. Los Angeles 10 against 8. Philadelphia 7 against 6. Fewer fatalities were reported last week by 37 cities than in the week before. No deaths were reported in 38 cities.

ed an inquest this morning at 10 o'clock at the Franklin Grove town hall. State's Attorney Edward Jones was present to conduct the inquest.

Iowans Here Over Night

Farris and Robert, aged 17, 1116 Sixth street, south east, Cedar Rapids, son of the former's employer, were driving west on the Lincoln Highway about 5 o'clock last evening. State Highway Officer Edward Mahan was summoned to the scene and brought the two men to the police station in this city. They consented to remain at the county jail until returned to Franklin Grove this morning to testify at the inquest.

Farris testified that he reduced the speed of his car to between 20 and 25 miles an hour as he passed through the village and he first observed the Geeting brothers about a block away. He sounded his horn and watched the boys closely. Both suddenly started to run out on the paving. The elder, appeared to be trying to race across the highway ahead of the car while his younger brother ran west on the paving.

Ran Car Into Ditch

Near the intersection of the highway and Spring street, Farris turned his car off the pavement and ran into the ditch along a fence on the north side of the right of way in an effort to prevent striking the lad. He testified that he would have struck both brothers had he continued west on the paved slab. The boy was thrown by the force of the impact, and Abodeley, jumping from the car, picked the child up and carried him into the home of Mrs. Susan Barkman.

Dr. Floyd E. Duncan of Franklin Grove was summoned and his examination disclosed a skull fracture, death following within a very short time. Robert Geeting told the coroner's jury that he and his brother were delivering hand bills for their father and planned to distribute the circulars in the north part of town when they ran across the highway.

The jury, composed of E. L. Fuller, foreman; W. W. Phillips, Earl Fish, A. W. Crawford, Jr., A. J. Stewart and Wayne Bates returned

The youth trembled slightly as Judge Frank A. Hendrickson pronounced sentence of death in the electric chair at Trenton during the week of January 5.

James S. Patch, well known Lee county farmer and elder of the First Christian church of this city for the past fifteen years, died suddenly at his farm home eight miles east of the city on the Lincoln Highway, yesterday afternoon, the apparent victim of a heart attack with which he was seized while repairing the plaster in an upper room. He was found by his wife, seated on the floor gasping for breath and passed away shortly afterwards.

Funeral services will be held at the home, where he had resided for 21 years, at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and at the Christian church in this city at 1:30. Rev. James A. Barnett, pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. Chas. E. Marlow, of Cleta. Burial will be at Cleta.

AIR MAIL TO PHILIPPINES INAUGURATED

China Clipper, With Two Tons of Mail, Poised to Hop

Alameda, Calif., Nov. 22.—(AP)—America's air mail will start bridging the Pacific today.

Amid international ceremonies, the 25-ton China Clipper will soar through the Golden Gate late today (about 6 P. M. Central Standard time) to inaugurate the Pan-American Airways flying service to Hawaii and the Philippines.

Hop across the sea will reach Honolulu in 18 hours and Manila in 60 hours flying time.

Climaxing oratory, flag-waving and festivities, the great seaplane will soar from San Francisco Bay for Honolulu, 2,400 miles away, laden with two tons of mail. No passengers will be carried.

Postmaster General James A. Farley is to deliver a message from President Roosevelt, and just as the China Clipper leaves the water, he will press a button to signalize throughout the nation that air mail to the Orient has begun.

To Exchange Felicitations
Felicitations will be exchanged between officials of the mainland and the Pacific isles.

President Manuel Quezon of the budding Philippine republic, Gov. Joseph P. McKim of Hawaii and Gov. Frank Merriam of California have arranged to exchange messages of congratulations by wireless.

It is a Roman holiday for philatelists. They have poured in upon the postal service more than 100,000 letters for this first flight.

The second trans-Pacific plane will leave Alameda Dec. 6, and should pass the returning China Clipper about 1,000 miles out.

Thereafter, if all goes well, a plane will arrive and depart every two weeks. Passengers will be carried as soon as the trip is considered routine.

Only the flight to Honolulu involves night flying. Comparatively short flights to Midway, Wake, Guam and Manila complete the trip.

Aboard the Clipper, besides Captain Edwin Musick, will be eight crewmen.

SISTER SHIP ENROUTE

Miami, Fla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Just heating the sun up, the 25-ton Philippine Clipper thundered away at 5:18 A. M. (Central Standard time) today for Acapulco, Mexico, 1,560 miles distant en route to California to follow her sister ship, the China Clipper, into trans-Pacific service.

THINKS REFUSAL OF UTILITIES TO REGISTER ERROR

New York Nov. 22.—(AP)—Edward F. Hutton, nationally prominent financier whose recently published magazine article urged business to "gang up" in protection of its interests, took a friendlier attitude toward the national administration today.

He said his present view is that utilities companies "were right in organizing for action to fight hostile legislation but I wholly disapprove of some of the methods they used and I also feel that their latest action in refusing to register and comply with the law is a mistaken action."

He added, "while they may have legal advice that such a course is sound I think they should have accepted the government's offer stipulating that registration did not mean in any sense a waiver of their constitutional right to test the validity of the law."

Hutton, who is chairman of the General Foods Corporation and an executive in several other large firms, expressed his present feeling in a statement telegraphed to his secretary here. The financier is ill at his home in South Carolina.

Paroled Convict is Given 30 Years for Assault on Woman

Majority Voting Against New Deal in First Returns of the Literary Digest Poll

Decline in Popularity Indicated in First Five States

A majority is voting against "the Roosevelt New Deal to date" as shown by the first returns of The Literary Digest's current 10,000,000-ballot poll on the administration's "acts and policies" which will be published in tomorrow's issue of the magazine.

The initial returns include 40,053 votes from five states in the south and west.

The tabulation of the early balloting shows 53.28 per cent voting "no" and 46.72 per cent "yes" in answer to the question: "Do you now approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to date?"

Favorable in 1934

A previous poll on the same issue conducted in the late spring of 1934, to practically the same voters, revealed a national sentiment of 61.15 per cent for the New Deal to 38.85 per cent against it. This was a larger percentage of popular approval for the president than the 59.15 per cent of the official Roosevelt-Hoover vote he received in 1932.

Two of the five states, Georgia and Oklahoma, from which returns are published this week, give a majority vote for the New Deal, while the other three states of Iowa, Kansas and Missouri, in the farm belt, register outright disapproval. Roosevelt's "other home state" of Georgia shows 70.38 per cent of the first 3,947 ballots tallied voting in support of his policies.

Change in Iowa

Iowa, with 17,756 votes now tabulated, shows 41.16 per cent for the New Deal as compared to an approval vote in last year's Digest poll.

The tabulation shows that the New Deal popularity has declined in Kansas since 1934 to 44.67 per cent in the current poll. Missouri so far returns 11,779 ballots of which 46.82 per cent are for the New Deal. Both states voted for Roosevelt in 1932.

The returns from Oklahoma show 52.06 per cent of the 2,353 votes cast so far supporting the New Deal.

An analysis of how voters in this poll voted in 1932 is also reported in the magazine showing the drift of the former Roosevelt and Hoover supporters for and against the New Deal.

"Less than a year in advance of the 1936 presidential election," the magazine states, "Americans are casting secret ballots in another great straw vote of the Digest."

"This poll is being operated in the same way as its predecessors, which have foretold election results with unerring accuracy."

Two Questions Asked

"Two questions are being asked: Do you NOW approve the acts and policies of the Roosevelt New Deal to date?" "For whom did you vote for president in 1932?"

"Chief interest in the first returns probably will center in those from Georgia, President Roosevelt's 'other home state.' Georgia's initial representation is 3,947 votes, of which 2,778 endorse the New Deal and 1,169 are hostile."

"The percentages are 70.38 yes; 29.62 no. In the Digest's 1934 poll of New Deal strength, the final percentage score in Georgia was 62.43 yes; 37.57 no."

"This, at first glance, might indicate to some observers a loss in New Deal popularity. Possibly they will associate it with the attacks on the New Deal made by Georgia's governor, Eugene Talmadge."

Mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential candidate himself, Governor Talmadge has repeatedly assailed the Roosevelt administration and predicted its defeat in 1936.

More Ballots Sent Out

"However, The Digest repeats that it would be futile, at this stage of the poll, to attempt to draw definite conclusions."

"While the nation peruses these figures in an effort to find a hint of political trends, more ballots at the rate of 500,000 a day are being sent out."

After 28 Years

Arnett, Okla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Justice of the Peace C. E. Farmer of LaVerne was in jail today charged by County Attorney Charles B. Leedy with a slaying committed before Oklahoma became a state.

Leedy said a dance hall entertainer of territorial days, who witnessed the slaying of Ed Nelson at Shattuck, Okla., 28 years ago had written him a "confession," naming Farmer as one of two men involved in the slaying of Nelson and disposition of his body after a gambling quarrel.

Leedy said the woman, Bonnie Lovall of Death Valley, Calif., was coming here to testify. Farmer, married and father of one child, denied the woman's story.

RENEWED HOPE FOR AVIATORS DIMMED TODAY

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press)

Singapore, Straits Settlements, Nov. 22.—Renewed hopes of finding Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith alive were dimmed tonight when a rescue airplane reported it had failed to find him on Sayer Island, in the Bay of Bengal of Siam.

The airplane went to Alor Star, British Malaya, for the night and will resume its search along the east coast peninsula tomorrow.

Hopes that the famous trans-oceanic flier, long lost on a flight from England to Australia, might still be alive were revived by the sight of flares rising from the lonely island.

The master of the British steamer Pasha reported sighting the flares on Sayer Island, in the Bay of Bengal. It was over the bay that Kingsford-Smith and his copilot, Tom Pethybridge, were last seen by a fellow flyer, bucking a raging monsoon, just two weeks ago.

The local wireless station continued its broadcasts in a fresh effort to contact the missing men, and Malay English offered a reward for information leading to discovery of the fliers.

The original source of this hint did not elaborate or explain what federal agencies to extend notes they hold from shipping companies.

The shipping board, however, holds obligations against a number of American vessels.

The government continued to keep a close watch on exports to Italy and Ethiopia in pursuit of a which resulted yesterday in Secretary Ickes' call for a voluntary halt on oil shipments to the warring nations.

Ickes' statement, which aroused suspicion in Rome, was the latest in a series of utterances designed to discourage the export of war materials to the two nations.

The Interior Secretary, in his capacity as oil administrator, said oil producers "should comply both in letter and spirit with the effort of the government to prevent shipment of munitions to belligerents."

He acknowledged he had "no authority at all" to order a compulsory ban.

A commerce department report said oil exports in September were higher than in August, "indicating that the stimulation due to the war scare and other factors outweighs the usual seasonal decline." Exports were slightly smaller, however, in October than in September.

The government watched to see what effect Ickes' suggestion would have. Larger oil companies at Houston, Texas, indicated a disposition to comply.

ITALIANS SUSPICIOUS

(Copyright, 1935 by The AP)

Rome, Nov. 22.—Fascist authorities expressed open suspicion today over Secretary Ickes' call on the United States oil industry to halt shipments to Italy and Ethiopia, declaring this action brought America closer to the ranks of "sanctionist" countries subject to reprisals.

Fascist leaders said the American oil administrator's request was a serious threat to their wartime oil supply.

They disclosed they were weighing the chances that the Washington administration would have its way with the oil interests which until now, they asserted, were disposed to continue selling to Italy, an old friend and customer.

Should this barrier fall definitely, Fascists pointed out, they would be forced to seek elsewhere the fuel vital to their mechanized armies, driving for conquest in Ethiopia.

Under such circumstances, Italy's access to oil supplies would be rendered uncertain. The principal sources then would be controlled by companies of what would be considered by Italy as "sanctionists," to be dealt with

OIL CARGOES FOR IL DUCE TURNED DOWN

Follows Ickes' Plea for Voluntary End of Shipments

BULLETIN

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A shipping board has reminded steamship owners and operators who owe it money that the shipment of raw materials to Italy and Ethiopia is contrary to the government's policy.

In its letters, it was reported today, the board did not actually threaten to cut off financial assistance for those lines which violated the policy. It was learned, though, that the reminders probably were responsible for the holding in port of some cargo ships, including oil tankers, already loaded or about to be loaded with goods destined for the war zone.

The letters were described as very short and containing only excerpts from the statement of Secretary Hull on November 15 which said the shipment of raw materials, as well as implements of war, is "directly contrary to the policy of this government."

Indications developed today that the administration either had begun or was contemplating application of drastic financial pressure to prevent American trade with Italy and Ethiopia.

Appraised of unconfirmed reports that some oil tankers and other vessels had mysteriously cancelled cargo voyages to the Italy-Ethiopia war zone, both from eastern and Gulf ports, officials expressed belief that might be due to the refusal of federal agencies to extend notes they hold from shipping companies.

The original source of this hint did not elaborate or explain what federal agencies to extend notes they hold from shipping companies.

The shipping board, however, holds obligations against a number of American vessels.

NOISE! NOISE!

By Joseph Fort Newton
"OR the love of heaven," a reader begs, "while you are talking of everyday living do say something about the various assortment of noises which make life hideous and well nigh unlivable."

"For one solid hour I've been trying to read a little book entitled 'You Must Relax,' but it can't be done in a boiler-factory. Actually I am unable to hear myself think, much less unwind."

"One, two, three, four, five radios are going in my vicinity at full blast, blaring out the balls and strikes of the game. Some of my neighbors turn them on in the morning and let them go it all day!"

"After that, something else—honks, whistles, clanging cars, screeching, grinding, never-ending noise. I have not shot anyone yet, but at times I have an almost irresistible impulse to do so."

"Instead, I'm sitting here twofingering a type-writer, making a little local noise of my own, asking you to do something, or say something, about the devilish din, more I am sent to the bug-house. 'Marco Polo! Where do we go from here? How can we get away from unnecessary, unreasonable noises? Have people no consideration for others, or do they like noise and imagine that others like it?"

Alas, where can we go and what can we do? The latest balloon flight in Russia discovered that the noises of Moscow can be heard from a height of six miles! What about the cacophony of New York!

Or the racket of Paris or Rome, where shrill horns blow not simply at street crossings, but all the way between! It is bedlam all day and all night, and only a wooden man can get a wink of sleep.

In London last summer they had "honkless days," to give us a rest, and the old city was as quiet as a tiny village used to be. Only the low hum of the moving multitude could be heard—like music.

But something must be done—we cannot live in such a din and keep our nerves or our senses. It tells terribly on what is finest within us—we must somehow find a place or art of quietness.

Abandon "Little Red School House" Plea of Educator

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A plan to abandon the little red school houses" of the nation for consolidated rural schools was voiced here today by Miss Charl O. Williams of Washington, field secretary of the National Education Association.

Termining small rural schools "relics of ox cart days," she asserted in an interview.

"The little red school house was a milestone in education, but now it is a millstone around its neck."

Miss Williams advocated combining small school districts to save money and offer a "more complete" education to farm children at one school.

"Illinois and other states of the Midwest have too many little rural school buildings that are outgrown relics of education set up in ox cart days," she said.

The Illinois set-up of "10,000 school districts supervised by 30,000 school board members" was condemned by Miss Williams as "antiquated."

A nationwide movement to unite farm women and professional women of the city "to benefit rural producers and urban consumers" was outlined last night by Miss Williams, who also is president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women.

She urged local members to recognize "the fundamental business woman"—the farmer's wife.

"The power of women in business and politics will be multiplied, she predicted, "when one main spring represents both the business and farm women."

TREATIES ARE FRAGILE

When the United States government placed an embargo upon shipments of arms to Italy and Ethiopia, and warned that protection of the flag had been withdrawn from American shipping anything to the belligerents, the administration came perilously near to breaking long-standing trade treaties with both countries.

Whether we have violated the treaties may depend somewhat upon interpretation. Our treaty with Italy stipulates that the American government will not place restrictions upon "ordinary" articles of commerce. The treaty with Ethiopia is in the same spirit. Perhaps a loaded shell for a 9 point 45 howitzer is not an ordinary article of commerce. It may be ordinary in Europe, but it is not in the United States.

There is nothing more ordinary, however, in the United States, than a roll of barbed wire. If an American barbed wire manufacturer sends a consignment of this commodity to Italy, so that the Italian farmers can keep the cows out of the cabbage, he will find that he has no protection from the federal government. If the British should declare a sudden armed blockade upon Italy, the American barbed wire might be seized on the grounds that it is a war material. It is, in fact, a terribly effective barrier against a charge over no man's land.

The United States war department has prepared a list of 4000 "ordinary" articles not commonly called munitions, but which are used in prosecution of a modern war. But the administration's implied embargo does not even consider the 4000 articles. It is against all intercourse whatever. If an American wishes to go to Italy on an Italian ship to study music, sculpture or art, he is in danger and has no protection from the flag.

This attitude violates the spirit of our treaty with Italy, if not the letter of it.

We are reminded, in this connection, of the oft-repeated statement that every treaty has a clause in invisible ink. This clause, we are told, stipulates that the treaty shall be invalidated whenever it appears to the interest of one or both parties to violate it.

The air these days is full of scraps of paper. The so-called Stresa front, the Locarno pact, the Versailles treaty and the League of Nations covenant, the Kellogg-Briand pact, the nine-power pact, the Italo-Ethiopian treaty of amity, the Franco-British-Italian agreement in regard to Lake Tana, several Sino-Japanese treaties, the war debt agreements, all have been ripped to shreds whenever it appeared expedient.

The furious anger over Germany's scrap of paper appears laughable in retrospect. Then there is little, poverty-stricken Finland that pays its war debt installment on the barrel-head every time it is due.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

In Westfield, N. J., the board of education changed the name of the Roosevelt junior high school to the Theodore Roosevelt junior high school. New Dealers in committee assembled declared it "a direct slap at the president."

When George E. Q. Johnson, state's attorney of Cook county, moved to Chicago from Iowa, he inserted the initial Q in his name in order to be able to distinguish himself from all the other George Johnsons. In so doing was he giving a direct slap at all other George Johnsons? We do not think so.

It is our opinion that the Westfield New Dealers are going far out of their way to be slapped. If and when a school is named after the present president of the United States, does any one think it will be designated only as a Roosevelt school? Of course not. The one thing that has seemed to us to be standing out in the ambition of the incumbent is not to go down in history only as the fifth cousin of Theodore Roosevelt. When New Dealers name a Roosevelt school they will leave no one mistaken about which Roosevelt they have in mind, and they will be right. They should eliminate all confusion.

EVERYBODY GETS SOMETHING

Those who wanted money put on the grocery stand instead of the gold standard went to the White House and got it. The silverites went to the White House and got what they wanted. The labor leaders went to the White House and got what they wanted. The farmers went to the White House and got what they wanted. The socialists went to the White House and got what they wanted. The Norris-LaFollettes went to the White House and got what they wanted. The railway pensioners went to the White House and got what they wanted. The Frazier-Lemke debtors went to the White House and got what they wanted. Soviet Russia came over to the White House and got what it wanted. Everybody got his share of the more abundant life except the American business man and the American soldier.

Certainly the Canadians have shown great self-restraint in remaining away so long.

I do not think that a great European composer has arisen since Debussy, but that is my personal opinion. I do not deny the possibility that America may within a short time produce a greater one—Jose Iturbi, noted Spanish pianist.

Controlled debate in both houses would simply be a national disaster. Free debate has killed many a bad piece of legislation and saved millions of dollars to the taxpayers.—Senator Borah.

Another word that needs more accurate definition is "unemployable." A person may be unable to do one sort of work, but thoroughly competent to do another.

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Poor Duncy. He was very game, but really, it was quite a shame the way he puffed and panted with the hopper 'neath his arm.

He trudged on for a half a mile, ad then said, with a sickly smile, "Let's stop and rest. I'm pretty sure that we'll come to no harm."

"Okay," replied the hopper. "Gee, a thousand thanks for lugging me. I don't see how you did it, lad. You must be very strong."

"Well," Duncy said, "I did my best. It's no wonder I need rest. Perhaps you don't recall, but I was dragging you along."

"Now, if you'll just wait here, I think that I will run and get a drink. I see a little stream ahead. I'm thirsty as can be."

The hopper snapped, "If you don't mind, I'll follow right along behind. If water peps you up, it ought to do the same for me."

Besides the stream they found a shell and Duncy shouted, "This is swell! We'll use it for a cup."

Here, you can have the first good swig."

The hopper drank the small shell dry and then he loudly shouted, "I feel so much better, Duncy. I could almost dance a jig."

Another voice then made them jump. It said, "If I'd give you a thump, you both would get a sudden dip. Oh, what a sight you'd be!"

"But I'm not mean. You're safe and sound." Then Duncy quickly turned around and saw a funny-looking man. He shouted, "Mercy me!"

"Who are you? How did you get here?" The man replied, "There's naught to fear. I've lived around these parts, son, since the day that I was born."

"You are a boy and I'm an elf. Come, tell me all about yourself. But, first of all, please smile. There is no need to look forlorn."

Will Rogers Liked Chili, But Barbecued Lamb Was Taboo; And This Story Tells You Why

Will Rogers loved his chili, but barbecued lamb or kid were his pet aversions, Billy McKinnon, veteran Houston restaurant man recalls.

McKinnon, at whose restaurant Rogers ate first more than 20 years ago, considered Will the only notable who was "one of the family."

"On one occasion when Will was in town," McKinnon relates, "I had some fine barbecued lamb and I was mighty proud of it. I urged Will to try some."

"No, sir, Billy," Will replied, and I'll tell you why."

"Then he went on to tell me about an old cow hand who took an eastern tenderfoot to an Indian settlement for a barbecue."

"After the feed was over," Will continued, "the easterner went to thank the chief for the fine barbecue."

"That was great barbecue, chief," he said. "What was it kid or lamb?"

"Do you know what the chief answered?" Will chuckled.

"Heap fine dog, that, huh," he grunted."

Millions now have an opportunity to contribute to the memory of Will Rogers. Famous friends have organized The Will Rogers Memorial Commission. It is hoped every one who smiled with Rogers will come forward with a subscription. Take it or send it to your bank—or any bank—or use the accompanying coupon to send your subscription to this office.

Every cent subscribed will be used for memorials to be selected by Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, Alfred E. Smith, Will H. Hays, Jesse H. Jones, Owen D. Young, Vice President John N. Garner and other men and women of national prestige and respect. The memorials will depend on the number of friends who contribute—but they will be used for charitable, educational and humanitarian purposes. There will be no cold shafts of marble to honor the memory of this warm, friendly man. They will be living, continuing memorials.

reflected in the rise of infant mortality.
Alarmed by these conditions

DAILY HEALTH

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

One out of every four infants born around 1860 died before it reached its first birthday. Today the chances of surviving infancy have been markedly improved. Our present infant mortality is such that out of every thousand children born, not more than 60 die during the first year of their life.

The history of infant mortality in New York City has been carefully studied recently by Dr. Charles Bolduan and Louis Weiner, both of the New York City department of health.

Though New York City's infant mortality rate in 1860 was about 230, during the early part of the nineteenth century it was only roughly half that. The nineteenth century therefore started with a comparatively low infant mortality rate, which rose and later declined.

To explain the rise in infant mortality in New York City, the authors offer the following thoughts. In the first quarter of the last century manufacturing was relatively unimportant in New York. The inhabitants of the city were mainly devoted to trade and shipping. Housing conditions were generally favorable. Immigration was not large.

In the second quarter of the century, however, the population grew rapidly. Factories were established and because of competition with cheap immigrant labor, the standard of living fell. There was overcrowding and housing became insanitary. These conditions were

New York City organized its Department of Health, which promptly began and has since continued its noteworthy fight for better communal health.

We must note then, what was also so clearly shown by our war experience, that undesirable and insanitary environment promptly affects the health and life of the young. The infant mortality rate can almost be taken as the general index of the healthfulness of any given community.

RATE INCREASE BY RNA ATTACK- ED BY LAWYERS

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Three East St. Louis members of the Royal Neighbors of America, a fraternal insurance corporation, are seeking an injunction to prevent the society from enforcing a rate increase.

The plaintiffs—Mollie D. Smith, Edward N. Ferguson and Nancy Kenney—assert in their petition filed in St. Clair county circuit court, that the organization has a surplus of $52,000,000, that all death claims and other debts have been paid and that a rate hike is unwarranted.

Named as defendants are Mary E. Arnholt, Supreme Oracle of the Royal Neighbors, and seven other officers. The order is incorporated under the laws of Illinois.

The asserted insurance rate increase was alleged to have been provided in by-laws adopted at a special session of the head camp last Sept. 23 in Detroit. Mismanagement is alleged and an accounting is demanded.

The suit will be heard at the January term of court. Temporary restraining order was asked.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

THE Republic of China has frowned on the superstition, and has done much to educate the newer generations away from it, but the mass of the people still venerate the hairy dragon of ancient China.

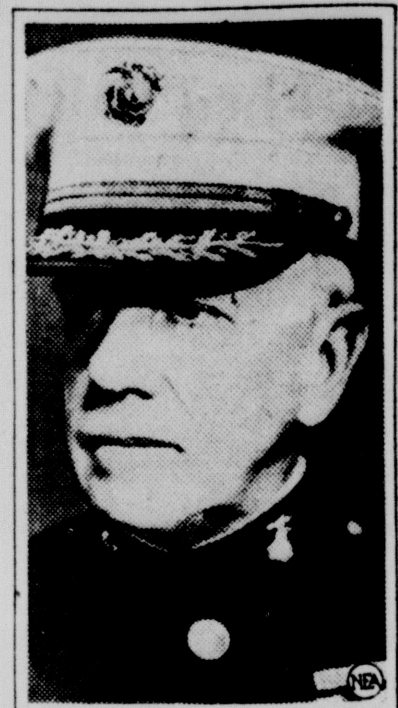

A single hair from this dragon is a token of especial luck. During the great earthquake of 1918, in China, the evil "joss," or spirit, was supposed to have prevailed. When the Chinese felt the tremors in Hong Kong, the inhabitants said that the great dragon had been tussling with this evil "joss," and had been striking the earth with its tail. Early the next day, many Chinese were afraid, and searched the streets of Hong Kong for hairs of the dragon. And many said they had found what they had sought!

The stamp shown here is one of several dragon issues of China before it became a republic.

New Jersey Fights Hauptmann's Appeal to Supreme Tribunal

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The state of New Jersey has urged the Supreme Court not to review the conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnaping and slaying the Lindbergh baby.

A 30-page brief filed by Joseph Lanigan, assistant state attorney general, concluded with these words:

"It is respectfully submitted that the petitioner (Hauptmann) has not shown himself to have been deprived of any right accorded him by the 14th amendment, and further, that he has been convicted and is now held in custody under due process of law within the meaning of the constitution."

A decision by the Supreme Court may come on December 9 whether to review the conviction. New Jersey had until December 5 to reply to the Hauptmann appeal and an earlier decision is made possible by the state's speedy action in filing today's brief.

Grandson of "T. R." and Companion Have Their Day in Court

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Cornelius Van Shaack Roosevelt, 20, grandson of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, and a college classmate pleaded innocent of charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

They appeared in Cambridge district court on charges of assault on two policemen and a newspaperman with air pistols.

The cases of Roosevelt, a Massachusetts Institute of Technology student, and his classmate, Peter De Flores, both of Pomfret, Conn. were continued for hearing November 26 and they were released in bail of $500 each.

The charges under which the pair were brought into court after allegedly taking pot shots from a window at passing motorists carry, under the state law, a maximum penalty of two and a half years in the house of correction.

Cornelius father is Col. Theodore Roosevelt, former governor of the Philippines and mentioned as a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

DARTMOUTH IN DANGER, GAME WITH TIGERS

Unbeaten Eastern Eleven May Be Given Loss

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Not without a wistful wonder where the lightning will strike next, this football guesser comes out of the weekly huddle with the following results:

Princeton-Dartmouth: A couple of undefeated and untied "Ivy Leaguers" get together. A sturdy line paced by Carl Ray and a strong running attack engineered by a half dozen effective backs have carried Dartmouth to eight victories. Princeton, gathering power as the season continues, has knocked over seven rivals and appears to have too much all-around class for the Indians. A vote for Princeton.

Stanford-California: An apparent toss-up, but California's Golden Bears have the useful knack of taking advantage of every scoring opportunity to clinch the Pacific Coast title and Rose Bowl assignment.

Irish Favored
Notre Dame-Southern California: The Trojans' air attack produced 20 points in one quarter against Washington State last week while Pliny-less Notre Dame was struggling along to its 6-6 draw with Army. Notre Dame, just the same, but it may be close.

Texas Christian-Rice: Sammy Baugh and Christian rate this battle on the basis of an all-victorious campaign thus far, but Rice's Owls should make all kinds of trouble.

Auburn-Georgia: Another close one with Auburn given a slight edge.

Minnesota-Wisconsin: The law of averages has nothing to do with Minnesota's Gophers, who have won 16 games in a row and haven't been beaten in 23. It looks like a bad day for Wisconsin.

Ohio State-Michigan: There's been no particular need for complimentary adjectives describing Ohio State's football team the last three weeks, but the Buckeyes should handle Michigan easily and wind up in a tie with Minnesota for the Big Ten championship.

Illini Get Call
Illinois-Chicago: Illinois should beat Jay Berwanger by sheer force of numbers.

Purdue-Indiana: Most of the boys like Purdue in this one but we'll take a flier on Indiana.

Northwestern-Iowa: Northwestern although those Hawkeyes are tough on a dry field.

Harvard-Yale: Harvard will be gunning for its first major victory of the campaign, but the signs point to Yale.

Columbia-Brown: Columbia Rutgers-Colgate: Colgate with yards to spare.

Temple-Villanova: Villanova's had a week's rest, but Temple gets the call.

Bucknell-Penn State: Bucknell's hard to beat at home, but the Bisons do not seem to have the stuff to stop Penn State.

Georgia Tech-Florida: Tech, narrowly.

Upset Possible
North Carolina State-Duke: The place for an upset, but Duke must be chosen.

Marquette-Creighton: Marquette, Kansas-Iowa state: Kansas. DePaul-St. Louis: DePaul.

Southern Methodist-Baylor: Baylor beat the Mustangs a year ago but it will be a modern miracle if they repeat.

Washington-Oregon: Washington.

Tap Dancing Grid
Star Compiling Record Yardage

Boulder, Colo., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Little Bill (Kay) Lam, who recommends tap dancing as aid to broken field running, is underlining his advice with deeds.

The 154-pound University of Colorado quarterback was disclosed today as standing an excellent chance to step his way into a national record for individual ground gaining.

So far this season, the jackrabbit of the Colorado backfield has ripped off 1880 yards in end runs, kick returns and forward passes thrown. The figures were compiled by university statisticians and announced by Walter H. Franklin, manager of athletics.

Since the little tap-dancing gridman has two more games to play, Lam appears to have an excellent chance of surpassing the mark of 2015 yards set by Beattie Peathers of Tennessee.

Unmarried women between 20 and 30 have three times as good a chance of marriage as did women of the same age in 1914, it is estimated.

BIG TROUBLE FOR FOX

There's plenty of trouble for any reckless fox which chances to put its skill against "Big Trouble," above. The dog, champion of the nation's fox puppies, scored the highest general average in the Chase Futurity at Jackson, Tenn., during the National Fox-hunters' Association trials. The dog is owned by Dr. J. E. Beck, of Pikeville, Tenn. The number painted on his side is for identification by judges.

DUTTON'S FIRST TERM AS PILOT IS PROMISING

Americans Snatch the First Victory; Hockey Play

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Red Dutton was wearing what probably was the biggest grin in the hockey world today.

Dutton is serving his first term as manager of the New York Americans and is understood to have a considerable financial interest in the club. And the Amerks had won their first victory of the National Hockey league season, a 3 to 1 overtime triumph over the Detroit Red Wings.

Princeton Coach On Victory Five To Play Tonight

Coach Eric Strom of Princeton high school, whose team will invade Dixon for a contest with the Purple and White cage quint, December 14, received and accepted a bid last week from his alma mater, Carleton College of Northfield, Minn., to play with the famous "Victory Five" basketball team of 1931-1933 against the Carleton varsity tonight in a practice game, inaugurating Carleton's season.

Strom was a member of the "Victory Five" when he was a student at Carleton. The team was continuing at that time a record of 62 consecutive victories on its home floor and 45 straight wins over Midwest conference rivals. Included in the accomplishments of the Victory Five were triumphs over three Big Ten teams, Chicago, Wisconsin and Minnesota. In 1933 the Carleton team dropped only one game a tilt with Iowa at Iowa City.

The Princeton mentor played a guard position and was slated to fill that position tonight. Coach Marshall Diebold of Carleton arranged the game to give his 1935-36 edition of basketball talent a thorough test.

BALL TRADES KEPT SECRET UNTIL LATER

Evans Rumored The Recipient of a $15,000 Offer

Dayton, O., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Baseball's trade winds, which have waited players from one club to another during the last 24 hours, dwindled to a mere zephyr today as the minor league meeting drew toward its close.

Deals were in the making, but most of them will be kept under cover until the December major league session in Chicago.

Many of the more than six hundred delegates left for home. Only the late shoppers were still on deck.

After the annual banquet last night rumors ran rampant. One, which no one could prove but everyone believed was that the American Association would meet, or had already met, Billy Evans' demand for a five-year contract at $15,000 per year, to take over the presidency of the circuit. The truth of the report will remain a mystery until the big league session.

Hickey Resigns.
Thomas Jefferson Hickey, founder and long-time president of the association, surrendered the reins yesterday to accept a life-time job as chairman of the league's board of directors.

If Evans who resigned a few days ago as general manager of the Cleveland Indians, gets the association berth, the chances are that Lou McEvoy, business manager of the St. Louis Browns, will take over the newly-created position as assistant to Will Harridge, president of the American League.

Another report, which seemed well-grounded, had it that Lew Fonseca, the American League's promotional director, would become the new prey of the Pacific coast loop. Hi Baggerly resigned recently as the league's chief.

Wally Berger, slugging outfielder of the Boston Braves, was the center of a lot of trade talk—and the big reason why numerous other swaps had not been consummated. Every club in the National League would like to add Berger to its roster. They are keeping all available talent on hands as trading material in case he is tossed on the market.

Needs Pitcher.
Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs was looking everywhere for a starting pitcher. He tossed Fred Lindstrom, Chuck Klein and Tut Steinback, all outfielders, on the block but found no takers.

Al Simmons, White Sox garden-er, seems headed for Detroit if Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Tigers can talk owner Walter O. Briggs into putting up the necessary funds—somewhere under $100,000.

Harry Grabner, vice president of the White Sox, who lost $380 to a pickpocket yesterday, denied a Simmons deal was on the fire.

The Phillies and the Pirates staged a deal which solved the Pittsburgh catching dilemma. Al Todd, receiver went to Pittsburgh from Philadelphia and the Phillies got catcher Earl Grace from the Pirates. The Buccaneers tossed in Claude Passeau, star hurler of the Des Moines club in the Western league.

The Philadelphia Athletics took nothing but cash in return in sending shortstop Eric McNair and outfielder Roger Cramer to the Boston Red Sox, and Pinky Higgins, third sacker, to the New York Yankees.

Among the deals completed were: Columbus sold first baseman Don Hurst to Los Angeles, and bought pitcher Phil Collins from the Cardinals. Kansas City brought third baseman Marty Hopkins from the White Sox. Buffalo purchased catcher Ed Phillips from Cleveland. The White Sox optioned Carl Fisher, pitcher, to Kansas City.

Turkey's area is 294,492 square miles.

ROSE TOURNEY PROSPECTS IN FIGHTING MOOD

San Francisco, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Willingness to take on any football team in the country if they win the western Rose Bowl bid was expressed by rival coaches today as California and Stanford nearer their "big game" tomorrow at Palo Alto.

The first official disclosure that parties which may be the most interested held no brief for procedure which always has called for a visiting Rose Bowl contender from east of the Mississippi river was made by Coaches Leonard (Stub) Allison of California and Claude (Tiny) Thornhill of Stanford.

The field, so far as the coaches are concerned, is thrown wide open. It can be either of the two strong Texas universities, Southern Methodist or Texas Christian, as well as the still unbeaten Dartmouth team.

With eastern and southern teams tumbling into the ranks of the beaten, and other eligibles on the eastern half of the continent turning thumbs down on post-season play, there has been an increasing clamor for an eleven from the Southwest.

Creatures which can see in the dark have no special sense of sight. Their eyes, merely open wide enough to admit more light, than do those of human beings.

If the sun were a little larger, or a little nearer, or the moon a bit smaller, or farther away, we would have no total eclipse of the sun.

Ring Enemies—Sickbed Pals

These three fellows seem to be boon companions in this touching sickbed scene. But put them in the ring together, and they'd be after each other with pistols, knives, sledges, and lances for the middleweight crown. The fighter flat on his back is Teddy Yarosz, Monaca, Pa., ex-champion, who recently lost to Babe Risko, right, of Syracuse. Center is Frankie Battaglia, of Winnipeg, whose recent knockout of Paul Pirrone marked him as No. 1 challenger for Risko's title. Battaglia and Risko paid Yarosz a visit in a Philadelphia hospital after he had undergone an operation on a knee injured in a non-title go with Babe.

Amboy Cage Team To Open Against LaMoille Quint

LaMoille will open Amboy township high school's basketball season, Tuesday evening, November 26 in Amboy.

The game will be more than just a season's opener for Amboy. In a measure it will re-dedicate a gymnasium all redecorated with a re-sanded and re-conditioned floor which is in the best shape since the high school was built.

About 40 candidates have reported to Coach T. L. Traugher for practice and positions on the varsity and "B" teams. Three veterans will form a nucleus for the first string. They are Powers, J. Smith, and B. Leake.

Substitutes of the 1934-35 team who have good chances of landing a varsity position are McKeown, Flach, Bates, Walker, Co-vill, Lynch, J. Merrifield, and J. Ottengheim. New men include, Mickey, Hollister, Anderson, Griffith, Edwards and Sheppard.

The present law permits shooting of ducks and geese from Oct. 20 to Nov. 19 inclusive, but under the proposed change the season in southern Illinois would start about Nov. 15 and extend to Dec. 15.

Redmen Will Play Freeport Here On Thanksgiving Day

Manager Bud Prescott's Dixon Redmen will not play Sunday but will meet Freeport in a Thanksgiving Day football game on the Dixon high school field.

The Redmen have played four games losing only to the strong Harvard American Legionnaires here last Sunday by a 19 to 6 score. Harvard outwitted the locals and kept the ball in Dixon territory the entire game with the exception of a few brief moments near the close when the locals opened a touchdown drive.

Victories registered by the Redmen this fall include a 34 to 0 win over Rockford All-Stars, a 27 to 0 triumph over Janesville, Wis., and a scoreless tie with the Freeport Pros.

AP REPORTER'S STORY OF TRIP OVER WAR ZONE

James A. Mills Records
Story of Flight in South Ethiopia

Editor's Note: James A. Mills, veteran Associated Press foreign staff writer, was the first American newspaperman to fly over the southern front in the Italo-Ethiopian war. In the following dispatch he describes the dramatic trip.)

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press)
By JAMES A. MILLS
Addis Ababa, Nov. 22.—I have just completed a 700-mile flight over the southern front, penetrating two-thirds of the way into Oga province right to the battle lines and south to Dagah Bur.

During the outgoing and return flights, my plane paralleled Emperor Haile Selassie's giant, single-motored ship for parts of the journey, while he was making his first visit to the war zone.

Ras Nasibu, Ethiopian commander-in-chief on the southern front, and his aide, Wehbi Pasha, former general of the Turkish imperial army and Dardanelles hero, warned me of the danger on being shot down by Italians. I flew over Gorrabel, which the Italians occupy, flying sufficiently high to outdistance Italian anti-aircraft fire.

Town Bombed Daily
From there, I flew to Dagah Bur, 150 miles northeast of Gorrabel, which is bombed daily by the Italians, and thence to Jijiga, 100 miles farther to the northeast and general headquarters for the Ethiopian southern armies.

The population of Dagah Bur, mistaking my plane for an Italian craft, fled the city.

Two Italian planes were reported to have preceded me over Jijiga and nearby Harar, flying to Dire-dawa to observe the movements of the emperor, who was preparing to return by air to Addis Ababa.

"Your flight is a highly hazardous one," said Ras Nasibu, "because the unfettered natives know only Italian plans. They will undoubtedly mistake your machine for an enemy plane and may attempt to shoot you down."

At Utmost Height
"I advise you to fly at the maximum speed of 200 miles an hour, maintaining the utmost height in order to avoid anti-aircraft guns and rifle fire."

"Yours is the first foreign airplane to enter this zone, which is far more dangerous than the northern front because the Italians bomb this area unceasingly daily and our hospitals are jammed with the wounded from air bombs."

Within a half hour I was flying over Dagah Bur, where Dr. Robert W. Hockman has the only American field hospital in Ethiopia.

Saw Stars and Stripes
The Stars and Stripes fly proudly from Dr. Hockman's tent, warning the Italians that they must refrain from bombing this remote refuge.

Owing to the lack of an airfield and the presence of anti-aircraft equipment, it was impossible to land, but I could plainly discern stretcher barriers carrying wounded to Doctor Hockman's hospital, which is now the southernmost outpost of the Ethiopian army.

Flying thence toward Gorrabel, I could discern no large bodies of either Ethiopian or Italian troops. This apparently proved most of the Italian activities thus far had been confined to air bombing and tank attacks.

Civilians Wounded
Indeed, 90 per cent of the wounded in Jijiga and Dagah Bur hospitals consist of air bomb cases, most of them civilians, many of them women.

I found no gas cases whatever, which indicated the allegation that Mussolini was using chlorine or mustard gas with a pure myth.

For thousands of square miles, the inhospitable and unproductive African plain is covered with cactus, brush and brambles reminding one of the wildest parts of the western United States.

No water is anywhere visible on the plains and the rivers are dried up.

Only here and there does one see small fungus-covered lakes in volcanic craters, giving the land a pestilential appearance.

The North Star is little more than a degree from the true North Pole and is a much surer guide than the compass needle.

ASSEMBLY CAN NOT PASS ACT FOR TWIN FETE

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Mark Twain's centennial will be celebrated Nov. 30 without the benefit of a state commission and a legislative appropriation asked by Governor Horner.

The governor's bill to authorize a commission "to prepare plans for the observance" of the 100th anniversary of the birth of the writer and humorist is still on third reading in the house.

The centennial is a week from tomorrow. The bill can't be passed by the special session until a week later, if it now is passed at all.

State-wide observance of the Mark Twain centennial was Horner's own idea. His birthday also is Nov. 30. The governor placed the matter in his call for the special session, planned to appoint a special commission and issued a proclamation asking that special plans be made by schools and civic organizations.

The bill, carrying an appropriation of $2500, was introduced Nov. 12 by Rep. Thomas P. Sinnott, Rock Island Democrat, during the third week of the session. Since then scant attention has been paid it.

Even without the commission and the appropriation, the centennial won't be unobserved. The state historical society is planning a special Mark Twain meeting, and a luncheon is to be held at Chicago.

Weekly Review of Trade by Dun- Bradstreet Issued

New York, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Retail trade gathered momentum this week as the weather turned colder, Dun & Bradstreet said today.

"With the far west and middle west leading, volume of retail sales rose 2 to 5 per cent from the level of the week preceding, for the country as a whole, but the comparative with the 1934 total placed the range of the estimate from a loss to an increase of 7 per cent, due to the steady rise in sales during that period."

"As the result of the spurt in retail sales over the week-end, when temperatures dropped suddenly, nearly all branches of the wholesale market were busier than last week," the survey added.

"Reorders were received at the principal centers at the best rate in nearly a month, with dry goods, jewelry, underwear, sweaters, blankets, and general apparel suitable for cold weather forming most of the volume."

DEFECTS IN AAA
SHOULD BE COR-RECTED: GRANGE

Sacramento, Calif., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A permanent economic structure for agriculture, to be raised upon the groundwork of the AAA, was outlined today by the National Grange.

Principal pillars of the new program would be farmer-controlled cooperatives to take over AAA machinery, reduce production on a quantity instead of an acreage basis.

is, and insure the farmer's labor and seed against crop failure.

Drafted by a committee headed by C. C. Goswell, Kansas farm leader, the program supported the declaration of Louis J. Taber, National Master, that the AAA was a "real benefit" but contains defects requiring correction.

Designed as the cornerstone of the Grange's 1936 policy, the program was agreed upon in the closing minutes of the 69th convention last night.

The plan called for elimination of bureaucratic methods, maximum benefits for small farms, increased privileges for tenant farmers, steps to increase consumption, rewards for growing crops in which there are shortages, restraint upon growing crops in which there are surpluses, and simplification of adjustment machinery by providing one contract for each farm.

Monday at 7:30 The Young Women's Missionary Society is giving a tea and are inviting all to attend. A brief sketch will be given as part of the program of the evening. They will receive a silver offering.

STABILIZATION FUND MAY BE EX- TENDED BY PRES.

Washington, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The capital heard reports today that President Roosevelt will issue next month a proclamation extending for a third year the life of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund.

Established in January 1934, to stabilize the exchange value of the dollar by purchases and sales in the money markets, the fund's power expire next January 30 unless the president proclaims that an emergency still exists.

Jocularity called the "kitty" by Roosevelt, the fund has been handled in close secrecy. Though no official word says anything about the president's plans, it was believed the treasury would desire to have continued power to check the dollar's fluctuations, especially in view of the lack of an international agreement on stabilization.

If the fund should terminate January 30, the $2,000,000,000 would go into the general account of the treasury. The money originated through the New Deal's action in cutting the gold content of the dollar.

Only once in history have there been five living ex-presidents of the United States. This unusual number was a result largely of the fact that no president elected between 1836 and 1869 served more than four years.

News of the Churches

BRETHREN CHURCH

William E. Thompson, Pastor. The full house last night at the revival which has been in progress at the Brethren church for nearly two weeks was a happy demonstration of the loyalty and fine spirit of cooperation of the members and friends of the church. The delegates from the Sterling and Franklin Grove Brethren churches, with their special numbers of music added much to the spirit of worship. The Franklin Grove church gave two anthems and the Sterling church gave a ladies' trio.

Mrs. Thompson had a story for the boys and girls, and the congregation sang "Rock of Ages" as it was illustrated from the screen. "Standing at Decision Junction" will be the subject for the evangelist tonight, and a delegation is expected from Mount Morris. Sunday will be a big day. All Sunday school classes are working for large attendance in their classes. Sunday school at 10 and preaching at 11. The evening service will begin at seven o'clock. An interesting service is planned for the evening and everyone is invited to be present.

GRACE EVANGELICAL. "Life or Death" was the sermon subject used by Rev. A. R. Buckrop last night in evangelistic services.

He chose an Old Testament passage for his text which reads: "I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing, therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live."

The speaker said these were some of the last words of Moses before God called him to his eternal reward. He had called the people together and rehearsed the care of the Lord toward them, how He delivered them from bondage, how He blessed them when they obeyed His will and punished them when they disobeyed. With great earnestness he pleaded that the people choose righteousness that the blessings of the Almighty rest upon them calling heaven and earth to record that he had set before them life and death.

In applying the scriptures, the evangelist stated that to choose life is to choose Jesus Christ, who is the way, the truth and the life. Furthermore, he said, that all men ought to choose Christ because they need Him. To choose Christ is a manly thing to do and it gives us the hope of eternal life.

The evangelist will speak Sunday morning at 10:45 on the subject, "The Glories of Heaven" and in the evening his subject will be, "The Meaning of the Cross."

With All My Love by Mary Raymond Copyright NEA 1935

BEGIN HERE TODAY DANA WESTBROOK, born and reared abroad, comes to make her home with her grandmother, aristocratic MRS. WILLIARD CAMERON, whom Dana has never seen.

Twenty-one years before, Dana's mother eloped with the man she loved, leaving her husband and an infant daughter, NANCY WALLACE. Young Wallace divorced his wife and she married DANA WESTBROOK. A year later their daughter, Dana, was born, and given the name of her father.

After the death of her parents, Dana was invited to come to America to live with her mother's family. She is received cordially by her great aunt, MISS ELLEN CAMERON, but meets a cold welcome from her grandmother and her half-sister, Nancy. Nancy's bitterness and the gloomy atmosphere of the old place have a sobering effect. Dana thinks unhappily, "I shouldn't have come."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III THE sun came flooding in through a deep window. Close by, a bird was singing gaily. Dana, lying in the great canopied bed, lifted her young arms high in sheer elation. A smile curved her mouth.

In a sudden rush of feeling Dana thought—"It was ridiculous getting emotional last night. They'll like me soon, and I'll like them. At least, I'll try awfully hard."

Water was running in the tub presently in the adjoining bathroom, and Dana was singing blithely.

Across the hall an unhappy old woman listened to Dana's song. After a while she crossed the room and closed the transom. But she could still hear the words: "We'll sing a little, dance a little, love a lot . . . living in the middle of the moonlight."

The singer stopped abruptly and Mrs. Cameron sighed in relief. The girl was evidently a romantic creature. Like, like—she wouldn't complete the thought. But feelings, ideas that had been lying dormant through the years were crystallizing under a new impetus. Perhaps it was true that you had to direct romance. Perhaps it had been partially her fault that Dana's mother had wrecked her life and brought disgrace to a proud family name.

This girl seemed pliable enough. Much more so than Nancy. There was a stubborn one for you! Apparently in European schools they taught respect for one's elders, if they taught nothing else. They had done very well by her granddaughters. And the girl was beautiful. It was going to be quite satisfactory to see Susan Weatherford's face when Dana was introduced to her and her two ugly daughters.

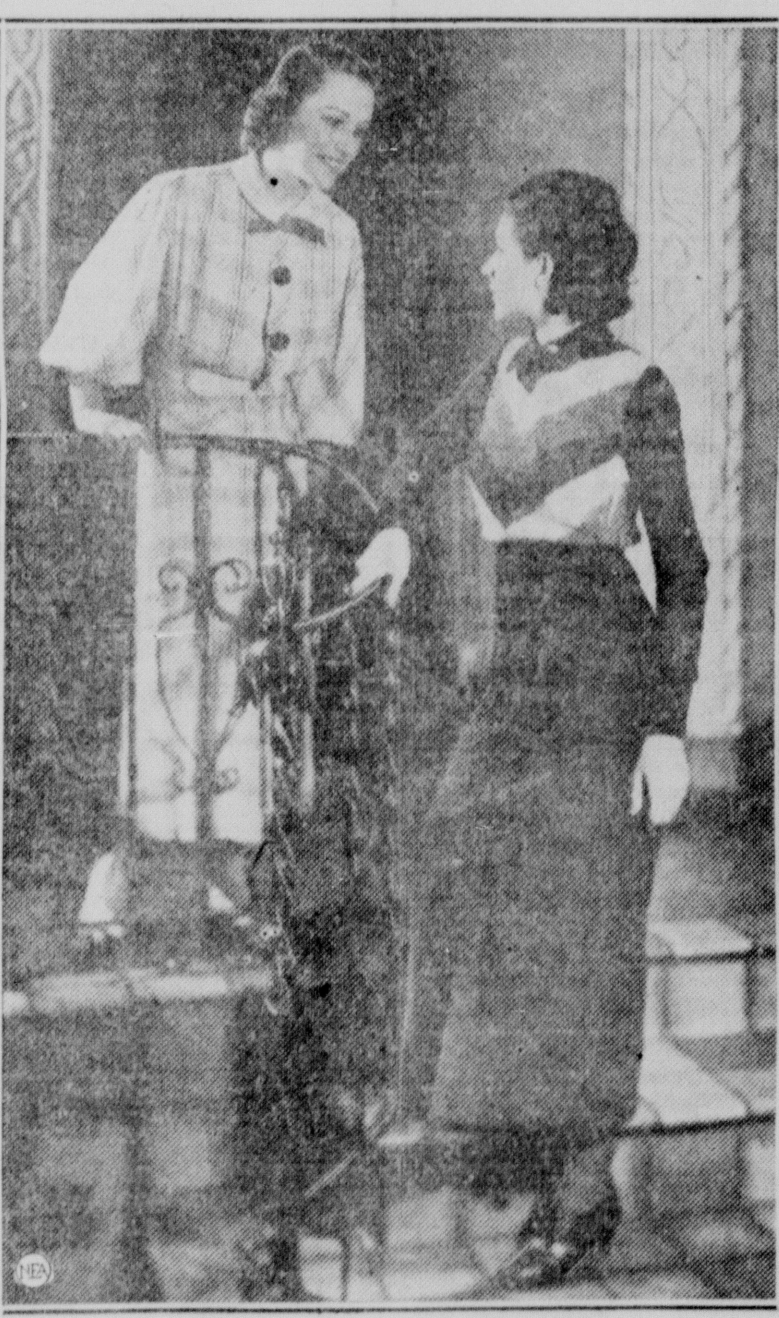

Old Mrs. Cameron almost chuckled. She must have a talk with Ellen. Somehow, somehow, they might be able to manage a party to properly introduce Dana to society.

FROM her own room on the south side of the house, Nancy had a different view of the garden. Its unkemptness had never troubled her, for it had been like that so long that she had almost forgotten it had ever been trimly landscaped, with decorous flower beds breaking the velvet stretches, a fountain tinkling musically in the center and great trees arching overhead.

There were voices under Nancy's window. Her grandmother's voice and that of young Jake, Sarah's grandson, who did odd jobs about the place and built the fires in winter for his "board and keep."

"Clear the weeds first, and then cut the grass," Mrs. Cameron was directing. "And then I'll show you about pruning the shrubbery. If you need any help, you might get Alex to come in for two days. He's doing some work outside now, since the Merrins are away for the summer."

NANCY picked up her book and tried to concentrate, but it was

"Couldn't I go with you, Nancy?" Dana asked.

"Don't need no hep, Miss Cameron," Jake objected. "Clean up this air garden all by myself. And mek that $2 clear. Can do it easy all my myself, Miss."

Grandmother spending $2 to have the garden cleaned up! Nancy stepped to the window and stared down in amazement.

There was the gaunt old figure in rusty black, a huge sun hat of a vintage of years before, on her head. Now and then she lifted one hand and pointed with a long finger at some shrub or plant.

Nancy's black eyes sparkled, and she smiled. At the moment, she looked almost pretty. And then the old, contemptuous curve pulled her mouth down at the corners.

"It's about Dana," began Aunt Ellen. "Your grandmother has decided it is important for Dana to meet the right people."

"And you want me to steer her away from the bad wolves to the nice rich lambs," Nancy said shrewdly.

"Naturally, Nancy, we expect you to see that Dana doesn't meet any undesirable," Mrs. Cameron's voice was all iron again. "We thought it would be nice for both you girls if we gave a party."

"Ye gods! A party in this house!" Nancy breathed. "There have been some very wonderful affairs in this house, Nancy," chided Aunt Ellen gently. "Not in my time."

There was an infection in Nancy's voice that caused Mrs. Cameron to bend a suspicious gaze upon her. Aunt Ellen said, her voice shaking as it always did when the usual calm atmosphere was ruffled. "I'm sure it hasn't been your grandmother's fault. Times have changed so much, Nancy. I'm sure it hasn't been anybody's fault that our mode of living has changed—just circumstances."

"Where's the gold mine now?" Nancy asked pointedly. Her thin face was cupped in one hand. Her dark eyes raised fearlessly to her grandmother.

"Stuff and nonsense," said Mrs. Cameron. "Nancy knows she could have had parties. Nancy's been partyish. In my day, a girl liked nothing so well as going to parties, but Nancy would rather play tennis and golf and read and walk. It's all of her own choosing."

NANCY got to her feet, her face cold and impassive. "Well, when do we present the lovely Miss Westbrook to our friends? Count on me, 'Gran,' I'll spread the glad tidings by telephone. Or will we follow through handsomely with engraved invitations?"

"I think it will be just an informal affair," Mrs. Cameron answered slowly. "Punch and sandwiches. Maybe we'll have some ice cream and cake. We'll see."

"And by the way, I suppose we're inviting Ronnie Moore. Didn't I hear during my infancy that his great-grandmother once did fine laundering for some of my ancestors?"

"Shame on you, Nancy." "We're inviting Ronnie, of course!"

"Ronnie is a very fine and cultured young man." There was fire in Mrs. Cameron's eyes. "And eligible," mocked Nancy, softly. "Oh, so very eligible!"

She made straight for the open. Generally a long, swift walk helped to quiet the turbulent moods she was plunged into whenever she suspected she was being pitted.

She wondered now, unhappily, why she had taken that ugly crack at Ronnie. He had always been very nice to her. In spite of being the richest and best-looking boy in town, Ronnie was really not a bad sort. There was the time when he had sauntered over to her after the tennis tournament last summer, saying, "Keen playing, Nan." He had smiled down at her, and she had come almost near to liking him for a moment. Almost.

Deep in her thoughts, Nancy almost bumped into her half-sister. "Oh, hello," she said, pausing a moment in her confusion. And then walked on. As she reached the bottom step, Dana called:

"Are you going out, Nancy? Couldn't I go with you?" Nancy surveyed Dana, who

COMPTON NEWS

By FAYE ARCHER

Compton—Sunday, Nov. 24th will be a red letter day in the annals of the Methodist church, Compton. At 2:30 on that afternoon special services will be held to celebrate the completion of extensive repairs and complete redecoration of the church interior. The outstanding feature of the program will be an address by Dr. Holland, WLS, well-known to radio listeners. Special music will be furnished by the Merriam orchestra, Compton's Women's club chorus and the Junior Choir.

In 1834 Zachariah Malugin built the first cabin in this religion and soon worship services were being conducted there, as neighbors began to take up residence near. Then services were held from house to house for a time. Among the earliest settlers was John Gilmore who in 1837 during a trip to Troy Grove for provisions met a circuit-riding Methodist minister, a Rev. Lumery, and invited him to come to Malugin's Grove to hold a meeting. Six weeks later the service was held in Mr. Gilmore's own cabin home. At this meeting a church was organized and soon Rev. Beggs, another circuit rider, became the pastor. As time passed Steward, Twin Grove, West Brooklyn, West Paw Paw and Sublette were included in the circuit with the Malugin's Grove church. In 1857 the Sunday school of the Malugin Grove church was organized.

For several years meetings were held in the little Red Schoolhouse at the West Side of the grove until in the 1850's, a building was erected at the east edge of the grove near the cemetery on the Chicago-Galena Trail. Poorly equipped though this building was at first, with narrow plank seats, it served as a meeting house on Sunday and as a school house during the week. For some years it was burdened with a heavy debt, which was finally lifted by private subscriptions and the proceeds from a supper conducted in Hook's Hall by the ladies of the church.

In 1886 a parsonage was purchased, the money being loaned by the pastor at that time, C. Combs, but soon repaid. By this time only Malugin's and West Brooklyn were in the charge.

When the C. B. & Q. railway was built and the town of Compton laid out on its present site in 1873, many residences were moved in from the burg (as Malugin's Grove had now come to be called) and the pastor began to hold services in a hall in Compton, as well as in the old church. Naturally, with the shift of population came the idea of moving the church entirely. This was done in 1879, but not without a great deal of regret on the part of many residents of the Burg, regret amounting to bitterness at that time. This feeling is aptly expressed in a poem written at that time by a Miss Eula Gilmore:

Traveling Around America

WAITING TO FLY
DOWN in South America folks travel by airplane as casually as by motor, or rail, and some of the smallest towns—notably Chimbo with a population of 1,000—are covered by regular air service. The terminal shown here is in Chilayo, capital and important shipping point for the Department of Lambayeque in the sugar district of Northern Peru.

This little town is one of the stops on the regular Panagra airline route covering Panama, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, and Chile on which five new giant airliners have been introduced during the past six months—a route which makes connections in Panama with regular service from New York; and from Santiago, Chile, crosses the Andes to Buenos Aires and Montevideo connecting with the east coast seaplane service.

Airplanes have played an important role in the industrial development of the southern continent, carrying machinery and supplies to mines heretofore reached only by muleteam; providing speedy transportation of passengers, mail and freight between inland cities and seaports. Airways also contributed to the recent settlement of the Bolivia-Paraguay dispute by reducing by several days the time required for the representatives of the republics interested to reach points where the various conferences took place.

today
And after the preaching, lo!
The minister gently rose and said
That the dear old church must go.

Long years we have worshipped together there
In that church on the green hillside
And to that altar in days long fled
I led you a blushing bride.

And 'twas there as the years came slowly on
With our children, hand in hand
We taught their tiny feet the paths
To that far off better land.

And where are the rest of that band that met
And worshipped so long ago?
In the shade of that church they are lying now
Where the soft winds come and go.

And wife, I most wished you and I
As the minister talked today
Had been laid side by side on the green hillside
For they moved the old church away.

And it makes the teardrops gather and fall
And my heart it aches sore
When I think our trembling feet shall tread
The paths to that church no more.

Oh, I wish they would leave the old church there,

That its shadow on summer even Might peacefully fall on the graves of those
Who are now with the blest in heaven.

As a result in 1883-1884 a small church was erected near the site of the old one adjacent to the cemetery and was known as the Union church, entirely separate from the church in Compton. Here services have been held intermittently through the years.

In the meantime the Methodist minister took up his residence in the village of Compton, a parsonage at first being rented for him, then one purchased by the church. Finally in 1894 the present parsonage was erected during the pastorate of Rev. Bernreuter. Meanwhile a Ladies Aid society was organized by Rev. E. Brown affectionately known as "Father Brown" and long remembered as the pastor who always walked to his weekly service at West Brooklyn, and was never late.

In 1903 a Brotherhood was organized which did effective Christian work for several years. A little later, a Missionary Society and a Woman's Christian Temperance Union functioned for a number of years.

By 1908 the old church building was found inadequate for the activities of the congregation and extensive remodeling was done, a basement built for dining room kitchen, and furnace room, a wing added for the pulpit and another to serve as Epworth League room and additional auditorium space. Stained glass windows were put in, the whole appropriately decorated, and the outside finished with stucco.

During all these years the church served the needs of the community with its organization, its regular study and worship services and its social life. From time to time the religious spirit was further spread and strengthened by fine revival meetings, notably during the pastorate of Rev. Bell, 1892-1894 and Rev. Hetrick, 1899-1903. About ten years ago, during the pastorate of Rev. Fricke, a large number of members of the United Brethren church which by that time had disbanded, transferred their membership to the Methodist church and became some of its most loyal workers.

Material things have a way of deteriorating and of late years the church interior has again been in great need of extensive repair and redecoration but it has been only in the past several months under the encouraging leadership of the present pastor, Rev. McKelvey that it was felt that the task could be undertaken. The work was begun last winter by repairing, modernizing, and redecorating the kitchen and dining room in the basement, the labor being done gratis by members and friends of the church.

During the past summer improvements were made on the roof and belfry and then the greatest work of all was begun in October when the interior of the auditorium, hall and league room have been repaired and redecorated.

Perhaps there might fittingly be written over its door as over the door of every church group that seeks to have a beautiful place for worship, the words a bishop cathedral-builder of long ago inscribed at his church's entrance: "By meditation upon material beauty may the soul rise to contemplate the Divine." As in those olden days of cathedral buildings the workers said that by each bit of work they did they "Carved a vote for God" so all those workers in the history of the local church who have given dollars, served dinners, or wielded a hammer or a paint brush for building or beautifying the place of worship may feel that they, too, have cast "a vote for God."

Cook Relief Clients Can Now Enjoy Pie

Chicago, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Cook county relief clients may now have pie. This is because the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission is experimenting with a plan where-caring for Mrs. Bieschke who still remains very sick which her many friends will regret to hear.

Under the old system pie was taboo. Now the clients may buy what they wish. A total of $52.56 was handed out yesterday, the first day of the new method.
